Eve has called out a fact and claimed that Congress is the reason why the economy is failing. But what facts does she have? First, let's examine the three instances she cites. The second instance is a comment by the Chief Economist at the Congressional Budget Office, Douglas Elmendorf. Elmendorf said that the collapse of the housing market was due to "a confluence of events that put downward pressure on the housing market." At this point, Eve calls him a "liberal hack". The third instance is a quote from the work of Ben Bernanke. It was in a speech he gave in September of last year when he indicated that a collapse in home buying had undermined the American economy. There was some outcry from the left, claiming that the statement was taken out of context. But the point he was trying to make was that the single greatest risk to the economy was the risk of a collapse in the housing market. But the fact is, this was a comment that Bernanke made. Now, while he may not
