9:21 Vincent Underground Spotlight: Tyler Winward Vincent Underground Spotlight: Tyler Winward Vincent Underground Spotlight: Tyler Winward Tyler Winward is a young drummer from Austin, Texas who has been playing since he was around 3 years old. He joined the band, "Tattoo" when he was 10 years old and he has been playing ever since. Well, he is almost done touring with them, but he is focusing on his art and to do what he loves. He is constantly involved in bands, both in the studio and on stage. More About Vincent Underground: In the early 90's, people started calling me the "underground drummer". I couldn't figure that out because I didn't feel like I was underground. I was just staying in my room, playing the drums, listening to Genesis and punk rock, and enjoying life. Then I joined a band called "Ry and the Tyrants". We were like the first Genesis cover band in history. A couple years after that, I moved to Austin, TX and I met my wife (Stephanie) and we had a kid. When it came to getting a band together, I called some people I knew from high school and said, "Hey man, I'm in a band with my wife, we're looking for a singer and a guitarist and we have a song.

Any leads?" I played drums, and Brandon Widell and I met at a couple of parties. I went to his house one night after playing a couple of gigs, and he had a record of R.E.M. And he was like, "Check this out". And I was like, "Yeah, that's pretty good." It was "Everybody Hurts". And then that led to the band, Bodyjar. We started recording and putting stuff out, and touring.

We even toured with, "R.E.M." We did shows with them, and were opening for them, and also for, "The Smiths", and "Garbage" on their tours. After Bodyjar, I started playing with The Lesbians. I met them on the internet, and got invited to join. I was an adult man going around calling myself a "lesbian drummer". They were my first band ever. We had a couple compilations, and it led to me playing with other bands. In Austin, TX is the "Triple

Door". It's just a little bar with about 200
